Remnant Day---A Day of Unusual Values.

Although many years have elapsed since the establishment of the Weekly Remnant Day here, the same vigilance is exercised now as it was then to see that on this day the remnants, broken sizes, incomplete assortments appearing in our stocks are brought forward for immediate clearance. To do this the original cost of the merchandise is entirely forgotten and prices are placed on them that must cause their removal, hence it has long been known to our patrons as a day of unusual values. This week's list is no exception and is especially interesting in the great variety of goods offered and the lowness of the prices.
